Individual Status Report #2

For this week I tried to fix the addition of the Google maps API going into our project. There is a base model that can be set up on Android studio that allows the use of Google maps, but we did not use it. I am trying to find a way to add the API without having to start a new project over. If I cannot get it to work by Sunday then I am going to restart the project creation with the feature for the Google maps.
